SAN PABLO CHILD MEETS TRAGIC DEATH IN FLAMES

POLICE HUNT 'MYSTERY PAIR'

LONG FIGHT TO SAVE LIFE OF GIRL, 11, FAILS

Brother Of Child Makes Heroic Attempt To Save Her Life

Fatally burned as a coal from the wood stove in front of which she was standing ignited her clothing, Nancy Hazel Hartkoph 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hartkoph, of San Pablo, died at the Cottage hospital last night after a day's battle to save her life.

The tragedy occured at the family home and was witnessed by three of the other children: Robert, Evelyn and Joseph.

Evelyn, who was in the kitchen with her sister, reports that Nancy had been standing by the stove when a coal suddenly flew from the vent in front. Her clothing in flames, Nancy attempted to beat out the blaze with her hands, and failing, ran out into the yard.

Here, her brother, Robert, wrapped his coat about the child and rolled her on the ground. Before the fire could be put out, however, Nancy was severely burned about the body and was in a state of collapse.

Dr. L. St. John Hely was called at once and the child rushed to the hospital where a long fight ensued to save her.

Nancy is survived by her parents and seven brothers and sisters: Herbert, 19; Robert 18; John, 15; Joseph, 14, William, 10; Evelyn, 8; and Frankie, 2. She was a native of California.

Funeral services are pending in the hands of Wilson and Kratzer, awaiting the arrival of the girl's father from Fresno. An inquest will be conducted by Corner Aubrey Wilson this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

RAID ON STILLS NEAR ANTIOCH NETS FIVE MEN

$500 Fines Assessed To Three; Arrest Of Owner Expected

Seizing a $5,000 distillery, located on a ranch near the old Nortonville coal mines, south of Antioch, Britt Neilsen and Bert Campbell, county prohibition agents yesterday morning arrested five men who are being held at the county jail pending efforts of officials to learn the identity of the owners. The plant is the most complete and largest to be taken in Contra Costa county in many months.

Two Big Stills

The prohibition agents seized two stills of sixty gallons capacity each, a 5000 gallon tank, eleven 300 gallon tanks, nine of which contained mash, 90 sacks of sugar, a truck and the run of liquor in the stille. The agents said the plant had been in operation about two weeks.

The men under arrest are: Andrew Buti, 29, Hawyard; Jack Lagane, 28, and Charles Pia, 25, both of Antioch truck drivers, and L. Bonzinzi, 25, and Tony Ratti, 27, both of 1030 Fifty-second avenue Oakland.

Buti, whom the officers found tending the stills, admitted, the raiders said, that he had been hired but refused to name his employer.

Arrested With Truck

Ratti and Bonzini were arrested at the ranch home and Lagano and Pia were taken into custody when they drove onto the premises with a truck loaded with 90 sacks of sugar.

Buti and Ratti denied any complicity in the operation of the distillery, found in a large barn. They said they had leased the premises to operate a chicken ranch.

Authorities said they anticipated at least one more arrest would result from the raid.

Late yesterday afternoon Buti, Bronzi and Ratto pleaded guilty to charges of illegal possession of apparatus for manufacture of liquor and were given the alternative of fines of $500 or 500 days in jail by Judge Frank Glass. They expected to pay the fines. Lagane and Pia were charged with possession of substance for manufacture of liquor.

JIST AND JEST!

POOR JERRY

EVANSTON, ILL., July 25—Loyalty to its master cost the life of "Jerry," $800 police dog, who was shot for guarding the home of a family which Jerry had misguidedly taken for its own, it was revealed today.

Jerry, who loved children and hated burglars, belonged to E. H. Hanson, of Wilmette, the village just north of Evanston.

Wandering from home, the dog strolled to the portals of R. C. Hagans' residence here, and taking it for its own house, curled up at the door to guard it. When Mr. Hagans and his wife, returning, tried to get into their home, the dog wouldn't let them. Authorities were called in and Jerry breathed its last.

PAGE BARNUM

Chicago, July 25—Aladdin and his magic lamp fired Albert Kupis' imagination, so that when he, too, tried to command the spirits to appear, and failed, he had "Professor" Howard Adelaide, negro, haled into court today on a confidence charge.

Kupis told Judge Harry B. Miller and a jury that he had paid Adelaide $300 for some liquid which he was told to rub on his head.

He rubbed, he told a delighted court, but neither spooks nor spirits responded. Complaining to the negro mystic, he says he was given a jar containing weeds, which, placed on a table, would compel the spirits to come. But the jar failed to work.

Examination showed the jar to be full of seaweeds. Counsel for Adelaide stated he will insist that Kupis bought only $46 worth of "medicine."

MOTOR-PROOF PEDESTRIANS

A London writer offers a plan for the development of the motor-proof pedestrian. First he would make a census of all the people in the country who had been knocked down by motorcars and had come through more or less unscathed. "An act of Parliament would then force intermarriage among these splendid hardy folks. Their characteristics would be transmitted in an intensified form to their descendants, and in a few generations the country would consist of motorists and those whom motor-cars could not injure.

"What would become of the other pedestrians you ask. Oh, that's all right. We motorists would then have dealt with them."—Boston Transcript.

Do You Know That—

By MME. HALL-DEANE

The smart Parisienne wears with her summer gowns of lace and chiffon a large hat of supple velvet—usually in black.

The Du Barry necklet is a newcomer in costume jewelry. It is a choker affair of lustrous pearls that simulates the finest Oriental baroques and has a large clasp of sterling silver set with a carved plaque of jade. And the clasp is worn in front.

Now the shops are showing coolie coats for kiddies—just what mothers have been waiting for. They are featured in cunning designs and colorful patterns for youngsters from 2 to 6 years.

Paris is showing fascinating new hat ornaments. They are small elephants in black red, blue or greet set ith brilliants and are quite amusing and picturesque.

The summer blazer may be plain or striped. It is featured in two tones of red with white, or blue with white stripes, also in gay solid colors.

The smart summer ensemble for juniors consists of a washable sleeveless silk crepe frock with an embroidered monogram and a double breasted jacket in red, blue or green flannel.

Cool and attractive are the new beach coats of washable silk in gay plaids. Popular color combinations are red and navy, white with red, green with white or blue.

The smartest breakfast sets are of imported linen, with white centers and hemstitched borders of blue, rose, lavender or green. Many of the borders show fancy weaves and novel combination effects.

Plain and novelty patterned velveteen is combined with jersey in the fashioning of many costumes designed for fall. The most prominent colors are blue, wine, green, purple and copper.

When it comes to fashions for fall, look for all their flutters, be it panels or drapes, bows or jabots. Look for the yoke; you may find it in the region of the hips or the neck. Look for the sleeves; you may not find them at all; you may find long, snug fitting affairs, or mere apologies in the form of puffs.

An intriguing chapeau is the "Peek-a-boo." It is made of fine handkerchief felt with odd shaped cut-outs and insets of contrasting velvet.

A LONG CHASE

It was noticed at one of the boys' clubs over on the east side that a little negro who attended regularly always sought a certain book each evening and laughed uproariously apparently at the same picture. One of the supervisors approached and saw that the picture represented a bull chasing a small colored by across a field. He asked the little fellow what amused him so.

"Gosh!" answered the boy, "he ain't kotched him yet!"

LONG MEASURE

Prof. Problem—It takes a yard and a half of muslin to make a boy's shirt. How many shirts can be got out of six yards?

Toby Tooquick—Four, sir; but I know of a man that got more than that out of one. He got five of my big brother's and three of mine from our back yard one night last week.

AN AWFUL FRIGHT

Two fellows coming from work.

Jim—You know, Al, I had an awful fright today.

Al—You don't say, what happened?

Jim—Why, a big spider ran up my sleeve.

Al—Oh, that's nothing. I had a machine run up the seam of my sleeve.

What Your FACE TELLS

c.1927- by Betty Morrison PSY.D.

It would cost you a lot of money, time and many a heartache if you should hire an individual with this head shape for an executive. He would attend to the details himself, and the work for which he was hired would suffer. But should you hire him for a moral trainer for young men, an artist, or a designer, both you and he wauld be satisfied and become successful.

This is the extreme philosophical dreamer, with vivid imagination. He is mild, peaceful, submissive, quiet, and has the patience of Job. He likes to write poetry and compose music; has a splendid memory, and could write a speech verbatim.

He is forever building air castles and pilgrimaging into other worlds. He lives his past life over, and over, ever dreaming of a more perfect day. When his vision vanishes he becomes depressed and melancholy, always paying a heavy price for his dreaming. Many beautiful, unfulfilled love dreams are locked in the safe deposit of his breast.

His thinking in circles is costing him many sleepless nights and a brilliant career.

Statistics show that many persons of this head shape have taken their lives. They are superstitious and reach many illogical conclusions. They are extremely sensitive, they worry over trifles, doubt their ability and underestimate their efficiency and by doing so block the progress, ruin their health, shorten their life.

They care nothing for money. Salary is the least of their troubles. They would be content to live and die in the house they were born.

Their natural characteristics and tendencies are quite different than those of the natural executive.

Tomorrow we will analyze the executive.

Beauties Who Fail In The Movies Travel Road To Vice

By LADY BEATRICE GREY

Editors Note: This paper today concludes the true story of a beauty contest winner in a Mid-Western town in 1925 and her futile attempt to "crash" the movies. Already the series has evoked scores of letters from disillusioned girls, reciting their experiences in the "beauty contest" field. What do you think.

Chapter ...

"Boos Brothers' Cafeteria, where I went to work after my failure to oust Mary Pickford in the Hollywood studios, has more beautiful girls than Florenz Ziegfeld has in his revues.

Each of them has been drawn to California by that glittering magnet, the Kleig lights. Each has failed.

I earned $16 weekly as a cafeteria employee. My tips brought a few dollars more.

After I had been a few days at my new position one of the other girls asked me to go with her on a party with a gentleman friend of her sweetheart.

We went motoring. I walked home from that ride. During the evening, however, I learned another trick of the defeated picture aspirant Billing herself as a social directress, a woman known throughout the film colony as "Mme. Lee" has a roster of girls available for gay parties. Many of my associates in Hollywood enrolled with the women. They obtained work as paid companions for jaded business men, while Mme. Lee exacted a commission from their escorts.

The hostess racket is worket to death in Hollywood. Theatrical agencies advertise for girls to work at roadhouses and resorts in southern California and Mexico.

Needless to relate, the girls who enter this field of employment soon find themselves in the dregs of our social abyss. It is a one-usually in the evil resorts of Tia Juana, or other such infamous resorts.

A staggering number of virtuous innocent girls who go to Hollywood each year end in these dens of iniquity.

A man halted as he filed past me with his food laden tray in the cafeteria one day. He gasped, while his dishes clattered to the floor:

"At last I have found you."

My home town sweetheart, alarmed because I had not written had come to Hollywood to seek me.

Next day I became his bride. We got a train home that night. I am now the wife of a successful small town business man. We have a babe, and I wouldn't exchange my present status for Mary Pickford's crown.

Questions concerning beauty building through physical culture will receive the personal attention of Lady Grey, beauty culturist, and should be signed by the writer's full name and address, which will not be used without permission. Address her, care of this newspaper.

The Smartest Thing My Dog Ever Did

When my dog crosses the street he is punished by being put in a certain closet. One day he was gone quite a long time and we could not find him, but when he did come home he ran into the room all excited and went directly to the closet. He knew he had been guilty and expected his punishment.

WILMA DE WATERS.

Of course, your dog does smart things. Tell the "Dog Editor."

HE FORGOT

"I sent birthday greeting to the dean and got summoned to the office."

"How come? What did you write?

"I wrote him: "I wish your years would be as numerous as the hair on your head."

"That's nothing meriting a call to the office."

"Yeh. But I forgot he was bald."

CUTEST THING BABY EVER SAID

When my cousin, Carle, was four years old he enjoyed playing with a slate and chalk. He had a small sponge with which to erase the figures he drew. One day as I walked into the room he was pulling the sponge apart and looking intently into the small holes. When I asked him why he did this he replied, "I drew a little sailor and he went in the sponge when I rubbed it over him. Can you see him in there?"

But Fabien, forgetting his plan to be a priest, steals Ravoir's coach and carries Manon to Paris. There, Manon innocently covets a diamond bracelet.

"You wait here and watch these things—I will be back in a moment," Fabien advised as he put down their luggage on the street beside Manon and strode into the store.

Unfortunately it was one of the most exclusive and expensive shops in Paris. It was an ornate jewel in itself. But Fabien did not think or know anything at the moment except that Manon wanted something and that he was there to get it for her.

He entered with all the confidence of a man possessing unlimited funds. Being a gentleman by birth, it was quite natural for Fabien to ignore the smirk of the foppish and elegantly attired owner and demand that he bring the little diamond locket from the window.

Rubbing his hands in keen anticipation and bowing obsequiously the while, the dapper owner soon placed in Fabien's hands the priceless medallion which Manon in her childish desire had so coveted and which Fabien in his eager ardor to please her was now eyeing with more attention.

With assumed carelessness Fabien brought forth his nearly depleted purse and casually inquired the price.

"Ah, monsieur, the price? It is a mere trifle!" bowed the jeweler "only one thousand Louis D'Or."

With a gasp of dismay Fabien staggered back, pathetically clutching the slim purse. Gone in a moment was his beautiful dream as continued with a shrug of his shoulders: "It is really of little consequence. The price, monsieur, is placing in Manon's hand the lovely bauble her heart so desired. In its place came a true vision, one of stern realities and the immediate necessity of replenishing his small hoard of gold coins.

Glancing over his shoulder, through the window he saw Manon with her beautiful young face pressed eagerly against the glass. Her trust in Fabien was implicit and her faith in his ability to please her was unbounded.

With strengthened courage Fabien turned back to the jeweler and said, "Have you something for about a Louis?"

Turning his back, with a withering glance of disdain, the jeweler spun about with a pompous dignity that to Fabien would have been ridiculous had it been less serious, and stalked off to the rear of the store. He signaled for his junior salesman to take care of the trifling wants of a customer whose flat purse was an insult to the traditions of the fashionable shop.

Fabien completely lost his grand manner and apologetically made known his wishes. Much to his chagrin he found that even the cheapest locket in the establishment was beyond the amount in his purse, and even the apprentice salesman looked upon him with scorn.

But Manon must be pleased.

Her eager childish face was still pressed against the window. Desperately Fabien searched his pockets for anything that might possibly be turned into money to add to his pitifully small amount.

Suddenly his downcast eyes lighted up as he noticed the ornate silver buckles on his well fitting shoes. Here at last was something that would keep the smile on Manon's pretty lips.

Fabien gave a short despairing glance at Manon and turning to the salesman said, "If monsieur will accept these buckles in exchange for the locket—"

With a glance of disgust the salesman turned away and sought the owner. In a moment they returned and after carefully examining the buckles grudgingly agreed to the trade.

With a light heart and smiling face Fabien received the precious package and eagerly returned to Manon, who, having already grown tired of waiting, had turned away from the window and was ardently watching each elegantly gowned woman who passed.

To Manon's childish mind the sharp contrast of the beautiful silks and rustling gowns to her own meagre outfit brought a pang of envy to her heart, but she smilingly turned to meet Fabien with outstretched hands. The beautiful medallion would soon make her forgot her envy of these other women. Besides, would not Fabien buy her all the pretty things that the shops had to offer?

Anxiously Fabien watched as her dainty fingers quickly unwrapped the small package he had given her. Eagerly she undid the last cord and as eagerly raised the cover. The tiny cheap locket met her gaze—the locket for which Fabien had been forced to exchange his silver shoe buckles in order to meet the price.

A startled cry of disappointment escaped Manon as she said, "Fabien, this is not the locket—" then her lifted eyes caught the look of agony on his face. She dropped her head in shame. Her lowered glance took in Fabien's shoes—without the buckles. Then she understood. Her arms gripped him spasmodically, her eyes filled with tears and, with a holy smile lighting up her face she said, "Fabien, it is the most beautiful locket in the world."

CHAPTER V

And so once more it was wonderful to be alive. The world again was smiling on these two lovers as hand in hand they continued on their way, with eyes only for each other, and satisfied with the message they conveyed.

A thunder clap and the sudden pelt of rain brought them to their senses, and realizing the immediate need for shelter, they hurried along.

The shabby little door of a pension across the way offered them shelter, and guiding Manon through the hurrying throng, Fabien was relieved to take what small protection it gave.

The door of the pension suddenly opened behind them as they stood there, and completely framed therein stood a fat landlady. She eyed them curiously for a moment, then smiled knowingly and said:

"Does the gentleman wish a room for himself and his pretty wife?"

With a startled glance Manon and Fabien looked at each other. For a moment they did not grasp the real purport of the words.

Without waiting for them to reply the landlady continued, "I've just the place you're looking for and very cheap, too."

Again Manon and Fabien gazed earnestly at each other. Then as the necessity for shelter was so alarmingly important Fabien decided that they had no choice in the matter and nodded his head affirmatively.

The interior of the pension was even shabbier than the outside. It was fortunate that an economic lighting system could conceal rather than display the untidy walls and faded carpets.

Marie, a starved, yet wise little soul, was the maid of all work. Her greatest pleasure was to peek into the lives of others and find out how they spent their time. To her house cleaning was as uninteresting as the life of an irreproachable boarder.

In short, Marie reveled in dirt—of all kinds—and that is one reason that this particular pension had more on the surface than is usual with such places.

When the landlady summoned Marie to show the new arrivals to the vacant room she left her dust broom and pan on the stairs and clattered down with excitement enough to make one believe she had been invited on an all day's excursion.

"New people—men? Where are they from? Wonder what they're like?" she thought as she came toward them in the dimly lighted hall.

Marie prided herself on the fact that nothing could surprise her, so it was quite a tribute to Manon when the slavey's mouth dropped open and her eyes stared in amazement.

"Glory be!" thought Marie. "She's an angel!"

"THE LOVE OF SUNYA" SHOWS AT CALIFORNIA

New faces! New personalities! These add freshness, orginality, and interest to "The Love of Sunya," Gloria Swanson's latest picture, which will be at the California theatre today and tomorrow. The star is bringing several new actors to the screen.

"The public likes to see its favorites in pictures," Miss Swanson believes. "But I also am sure there is a strong demand for new faces. Going to theatres to see the same cast in pictures over and over again is like sitting down to an unchanged table-d'-hote dinner seven days a week. New dishes whet the appetite. So it is when you bring new talent to the screen."

Here are some of the new faces in "The Love of Sunya."

John Boles, a young Texan, whom Miss Swanson selected from a Broadway musical comedy success to play the leading male role oposite her. Harriette Underhill, the famous motion picture critic, describes Boles as "The handsomest man we ever saw." Miss Underhill asks, "Just what his fan mail is going to be like after 'The Love of Sunya' appears."

Flobelle Fairbanks, a niece of Douglas Fairbanks, who plays the role of Gloria's sister.

Hugh Miller, the English actor, who has been starred in English and German productions, but who has never apearped in American pictures before. After searching for more than a month for someone suitable for the part of the Yogi in "The Love of Sunya," Director Albert Parker learned Miller was in this country and selected him for the role.

Andres de Segurola, the Count of Alza, for many years a star of the Metropolitan Opera Company and later an impresario. In 'The Love of Sunya" he plays a part very realistic to him, that of an impresario who takes Miss Swanto Paris for an operatic career.

The star's determination to have new faces in "The Love of Sunya" was followed even in selection of persons for very minor parts, and the extras. Helen Eagles, sister of Jeannie Eagles, stage star, makes her entrance in pictures as an extra in this picture.

Other features include "Lyin' Tamers" an animal comedy; "Reflections", a scenic novelty; and International News.

ELINOR GLYN MASTERPIECE AT RICHMOND

The Elinor Glyn touch, which which changed Lew Cody from a villain into a romantic leading man, established John Gilbert as the great lover of the screen, and made Aileen Pringle, has now Anglicized Antonio Moreno. In "Love's Blindness," the Metro-Goldwyn novel, which comes to the Richmond theatre today, Moreno is a thorough Englishman, even down to his name, which becomes Hubert Culverdale. Pauline Starke has the leading female role.

"Love's Blindness" is by far the most stirring of all Elinor Glyn productions, having an absorbing plot, which has been unfolded skilfully and dramatically by Director John Francis Dillon under the author's personal supervision.

Other film features on the same program include "Hold Your Hat", the latest Fox News reel.

Unwelcome Love Disturbs Peace

Obnoxious love was given a 30 day jail sentence with committment withheld yesterday morning, when Police Judge C. A. Odell sentenced Jose Flores, 26, of 450 First street on a formal charge of disturbing the peace, to which Flores pleaded guilty when he was unable to raise the $100 bail that had been set.

Pasquale Cardoza, 416 C. St., alleged that Flores had been entirely too attentive in his desire to marry his daughter, aged 16. The girl had been removed to the detention home to prevent his finding her, Cardoza said.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

Fair or Foul, Foul or Fair?

They tell the story of Wilson Mizner, which is apropos of the Dempsey-Sharkey controversy.

A mob in the Roaring Forties were discussing the relative merits of Gen. Lee and Gen Grant, Confederate and Union leaders in the Civil War.

The discussion waxed hot and furious, until Mizner ended it.

"Didn't see the Civil War," piped Mizner, "But they paid off on Grant."

Fair or foul, foul or fair, as Jimmy Durante would say, they paid off on Dempsey.

The crux of the matter, as I see it, is this: Referee Jack O' Sullivan is either competent or incompetent. If Sharkey had been fouled O'Sullivan should have taken the proper steps to protect the Bostonian. He did not see, apparently, what others saw. At least he did not sanction Sharkey's protest, no sanction Sharky's protest.

Sharkey in making his protest of the right to the stomach which preceded the knockout, should have protected himself. "Protect yourself at all times" is a ring adage. More than that, it is a necessity. He should have dropped to one knee or gone into a clinch before turning his head to squawk. From the protection of either of these positions he could have made his protest.

He did neither. He dropped his hands turned his head to protest and Dempsey quite rightly clipped him with a left hook.

The alleged foul did not cripple Sharkey.

He was strong and very peeved at the moment he got smacked on the button. His failure to protect himself while lodging his protest paved the way for the knockout. The knockout blow was a left hook to the chin, not the stomach punch, around [illegible] the controversy wages.

Keep that in mind, when you start creating the thing out, as you will argue it out for the next five years.

Sharkey lost because, he didn't have the heart of the class to finish Jack Dempsey.

Dempsey took the heart out of Sharkey by his courage under fire. It was not the courage of a braggart; it was the quite courage of a born fighter, who had his steel tested time and again; it was the courage that carried Dempsey back into the ring to annihilate Firpo.

Dempsey never went backward. Sharkey rained his hardest blows on him, but Dempsey always shuffled forward. I think it was the grimness of that hunt, that made Sharkey falter and lose heart.

It was the conviction that he could not halt Dempsey's forward drive that weakened Sharkey as much as Dempsey's blows to the stomach.

Another thing which added to Sharkey's discomfiture in his first real fight, and a thing which amazed the crowd, was Dempsey's boxing ability. His sessions with Dave Shade had not been wasted. He slipped under Sharkey's punches as deftly as Tunney could could have done.

There is nothing so upsetting to a fighter as inability to get home to a target. Sharkey missed plenty of punches Thursday because Dempsey, the slugger, had aded boxing to his tricks.

NEW LAW WILL BAN SPEARING OF GAME FISH

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—California's new trout law that ot its kind ever put into effect becomes effective on Friday is regarded as one of the best laws of its kind ever put in effect, according to officials of the California Fish and Game Commission. The important provisions of the new law are listed below.

Trout may be taken only with rod and line and the rod must be held in the hand. It will be illegal to spear trout at any time. Not more than two attractor hades and three hooks will be allowed on any trout line. This eliminates numerous "glittering unware" devices regarded objectionable.

The law provides for open season on all trout except Golden trout as follows:

All districts except 2 1-22, 1 1-2, 23, 24, 25, May 1st to October 31st. District 2 1-2, May 30th to February 14th. Districts 4 1-2, 23, 24 and 25, May 30th to October 31st.

In tidewater and districts 2, 3 and 15 and in the Napa and Russian rivers, May 1st to February 28th. In addition to the summer open season in district 1 1-2 and the Klamath river, a winter season during November and December is provided. In lake Almanor the season will be from May 31st to October 31st. In Lake Almanor the season will be from May 15th to October 31st.

The limit remains the same except that in tidewater in districts 2, 3 and 15 and in the Napa and Russian rivers from November 1st to the last of February the limit will be three fish regardless of size.

The open season on Golden trout is during the months of July, August and September. Limit remains the same.

Districts are described as follows:

District 1 3-4 includes Modoc and Lassen counties.

Districe 1 1-2, Siskiyou, Humboldt and Del Nerte counties.

District 1, the Sierra from Siskiyou south to Kern county.

Districts 2 and 3, the coast counties.

District 4 1-2, Inyo and Mono counties.

District 4 3-4, San Diego and Imperial counties.

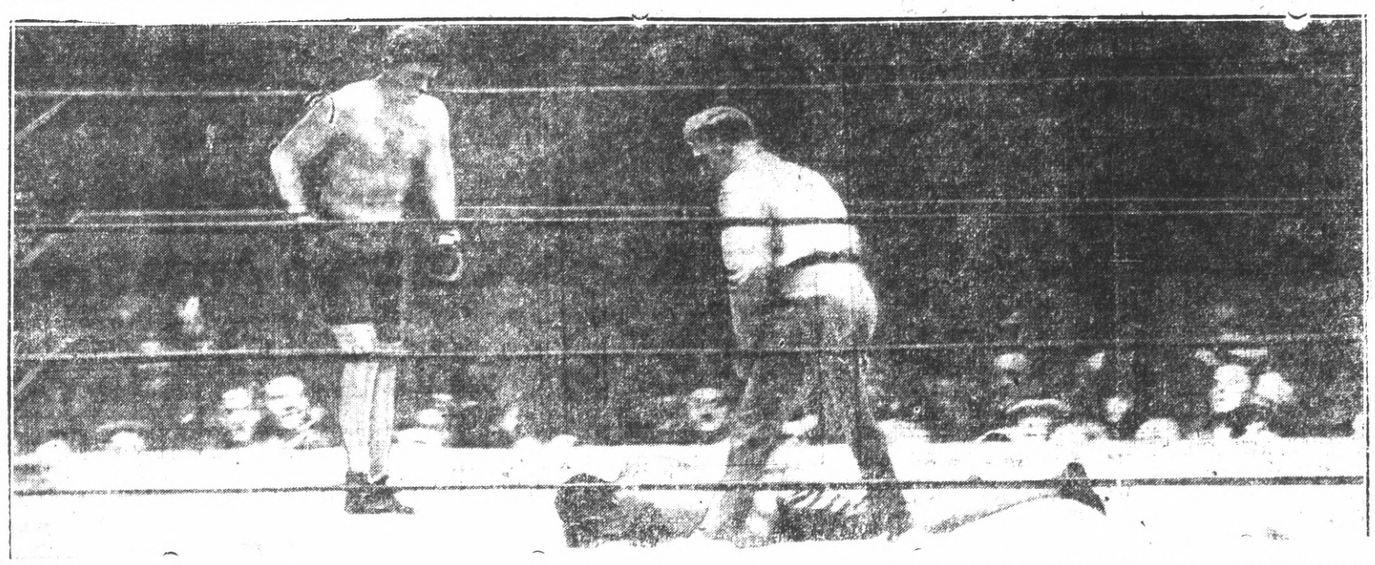

District 4, other counties south of the Tehachapi mountains.

All The Little Birdies Went 'Tweet Tweet'

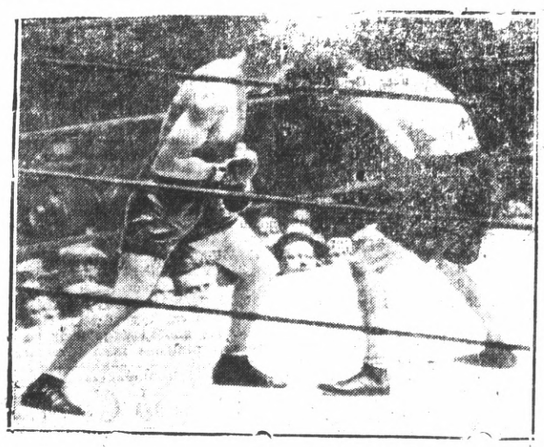

ON THE ROAD BACK HOME. The knockout, Dempsey's first step up the road leading back to the heavyweight championship. Sharkey has just completed his fall to the canvas, while Dempsey backs up into his corner. Referee Jack O'Sullivan is about to begin to count.

Hooks And Black Eyes

UGH! ANOTHER HOOK of the left-handed Dempsey variety lands on the Sharkey bread basket. The sailor took plenty in the midriff.

Sleepytime Pals

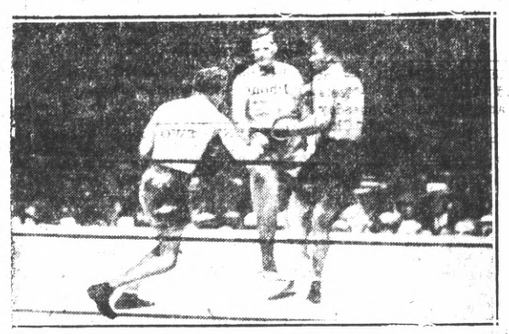

YOU AND I—and they ain't it. Neither Jack would give way in the fourth round of the thriller.

Hold That Midriff!

THE OLD CROUCH of Toledo and other days reappeared, and the ex-champ made it count.

Mashie In The Rough

STEPPING INTO IT was what Dempsey made Sharkey do. While the ex-champ fought his usual aggressive fight, he frequently forced the sailor to step into him, as fourth round photo above shows.

BIG FIGHT TO BE STAGED IN N. Y.-KEARNS

(By Universal Service)

CRETE, Ill., July 26.—Add the voice of Jack Kearns to those which have been raised, for or against the Dempsey-Tunney fight, in a Chicago setting.

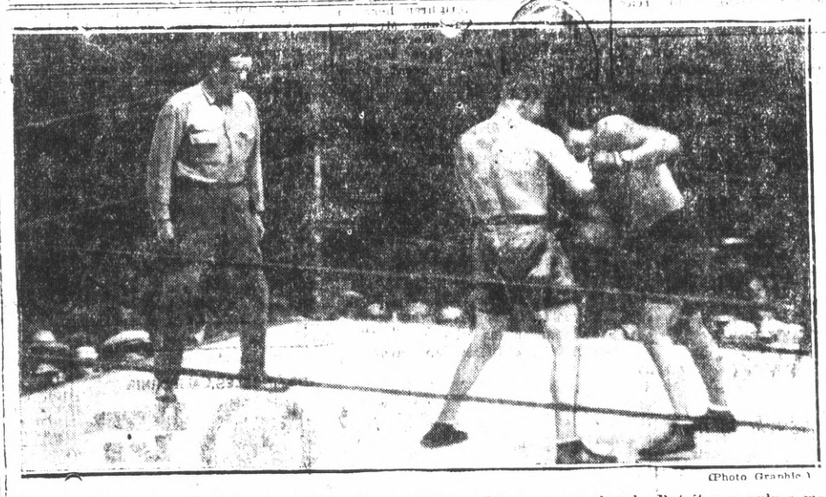

Kearns, resting between trains enroute to Los Angeles, where his mother is dangerously ill, told newspapermen here today, that he did not think Tex Rickard would come to Chicago next September with the fight.

"It looks to me as if Rickard is pulling the same stuff he did a year ago, playing Chicago against New York, for the sake of getting a high price for his tickets in the latter city," said Kearns. "I happen to know that he has some one making the fight for him over the heads of the New York Commission. Rickard never was one to pay much attention to a commission, anyhow.

"If he should decide to come here, I don't see how he is going to declare me out," added Kearns. "You know I spent a lot of time and money around here last year, trying to drum up business for Rickard and he hasn't settled yet. I've sued everybody else in this heavyweight championship racket so I might as well include Tex, if he gets rough."

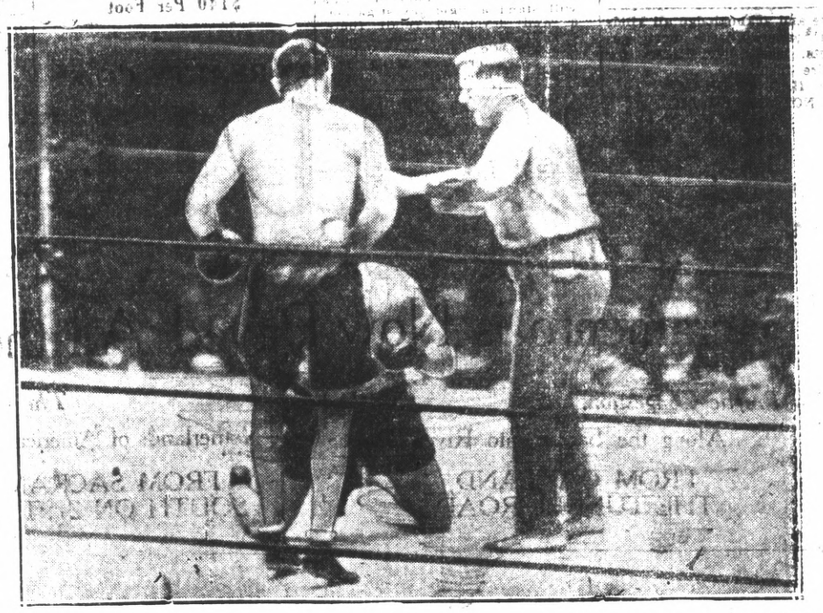

Kearns was in conference with Jim Mullen, during the afternoon. He wants to match his fighter, Mickey Walker, with either Jack Delaney, or Paul Berlenbach under Mullen's direction.

Dempsey Merely Blinked

ON THE CHIN crashed Sharkey's right in the second, and Dempsey was dazed. But it was only a momentary jar, and the battle went on merrily.

After The Blast...

LIKE THE LONG AGO—Once again Dempsey looks down on another victim of his murderous left. The moment of the knockout, with Sharkey still falling forward on his face.

HEART TROUBLE Marvelously Relieved

While visiting her daughter here in Oakland, Mrs. W. H. Morton of Stockton was in such great pain due to Heart Trouble that it affected her left hand. She could neither walk nor rest with the slightest comfort. All the physicians whom she consulted expressed the opinion that she had not more than ten days to live. She truly seemed to be at the point of death when she took her first package of the Fong Wan Herbs. It was cooked for her at home, and that night she had the first rest after many weeks of terrible suffering. After four weeks of the Fong Wan Herb Treatment, she was able to return to her home in Stockton. From that city she has sent the following testimonal to the Fong Wan Herb Co.:

OWES HER LIFE TO FONG WAN HERBS

Stockton, Cal., March 21, 1927.
To the Fong Wan Herb Co.:
I have been a sufferer with valvular trouble of the heart for some time. I became so ill that my doctors, who were many, gave me but a week or ten days to live.

I decided to try the Fong Wan Herb Co., and to the amazement of all who attended me, I was able to walk into their office after taking the Herbs one week. I have now taken them four weeks and I not only have a good heart, but have also been helped in other ailments.

I cannot speak too highly of the Fong Wan Herbs, as I owe my life to them. I am very grateful to Fong Wan for his kindness.

KIN OF TRAMP STILL UNFOUND

William Lawler, "mystery tramp," who was killed by a Southern Pacific train early Saturday in a railway tunnel near Oleum, had $1244.69 on deposit in the Washoe County Bank of Reno, according to information received by local authorities yesterday. Lawler also had a bank book showing about $200 in the bank of Italy in San Francisco.

The body is still being held here at the morgue pending further investigation by Coroner Wilson, who is endeavoring to locate relatives of the dead man.

Lawler, tramping along the track with a roll of bedding on his back, was trapped in the tunnel near Oleum and instantly killed.

Net Fishing Ban Near Span Is Compromised

PITTSBURG, July 26.—With the agreement of local fishermen to use every precaution against interference with the navigation of vessels in th Carquinez straits between Dillon Point and a point 1000 feet east of the Associated Oil company dock at Avon, the oil companies operating in the district have consented to a modification of their demand upon the war department that the area be closed to net fishing.

This was disclosed today by I. N. Hylen, secretary of the Sacramento River Fishermen's Union, at the conclusion of a conference with officials of the Associated and the Union Oil companies.

Modification of the oil firms' application will permit net fishing in the straits between the two points, provided that the fishermen do not approach within 1200 feet of the south shoreline.

This restriction was readily accepted by the fishermen, who a short time ago protested against the move to close the fairways to their nets.

"Cash and Carry" Announces Plans For Novel Race

NEW YORK, July 26.—Cash and Carry Pyle, the veteran Champaign, Ill., campaigner, is crusading again.

Having added to campus uplift by teaching the sons of old Alma Mater how to commercialize their drop kicking and having demonstrated to the poor tennis amateur that, on occasions at least, jobs may be exchanged for hucre, the erstwhile manager of Red Grange and Zuzanne Lenglen has turned his attention to the lost art of walking and running.

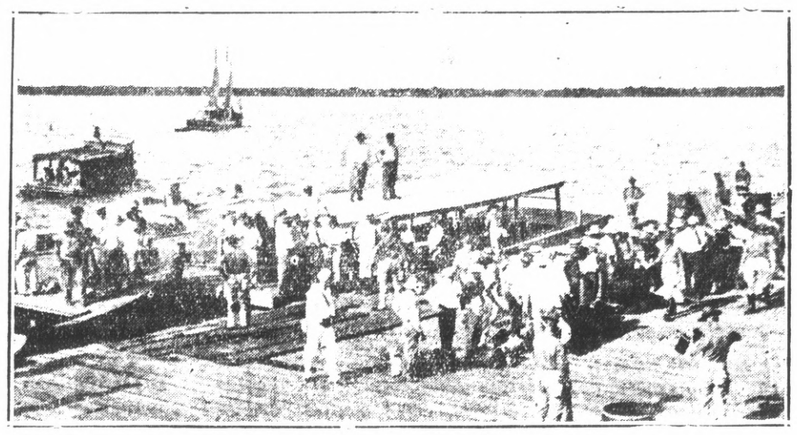

A letter from Pyle today brings an entry blank for the Los Angeles to New York footrace. The more formal name for the "Shanks Mare" Derby, which is emblazoned across the top of the entry blank in very imposing letters as the "International Trans-Continental Foot Race."

The Kind Of Soldiers Marines Fought

NICARAGUAN REBELS in the type shown above marshaled on a pier by U. S. Marines and sailors, were repelled and scattered by thirty-nine maries and forty-eight native constabulary when 400 of them, under Gen. Sandino, tried to rush an American outpost at Socotal. Bombing planes helped the rout.

Coolidge Sold On Aviation Promises Aid To All Cities That Will Found Airports

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 26—President Coolidge today pledged the assistance of the national government to every city and town in the United States that will establish a civil airport for promotion of commercial aviation.

The president is sold on aeronautics. He is watching with eager enthusiasm the nation-wide flight crusade of Lindbergh. He is anxious that the distinguished flying cross be conferred upon Clarence D. Chamberlin for his heroic flight across the sea. He is keeping in touch with the preparations for Bertaud's proposed flight to Rome under the auspices of Wiliam Randolph Ahlfearst and hopes that it will be crowned with success.

No matter what the old guard army chiefs believe, it is no secret that president Coolidge believes that the United States must have first-class aviation force for its future defense and he wants a vast commercial fleet developed that can be drawn into the first line of defense when the emergency arises.

President Coolidge, without ostentation, is building up the army and navy aviation fleets, even at the expense of the older branches of the military forces which are the pets of the old guardsmen. He allowed $85,000,000 for air purposes in the last budget. Over their protests the president instructed the military chiefs to increase the army and navy air force complements even if it had to be done by withdrawing men from other branches.

To callers at the executive offices here today President Coolidge confessed his desire to see every large city in the country establish a fine airport.

side of the highway. The truck first struck the left front fender of a machine driven by C. P. Elrod, of Oakland, and a member of McGee's party. The truck then crashed into the machine driven by McGee, despite the latter's efforts to avoid a collision by turning in toward the curb.

Both the truck and McGee's car were badly smashed. The injured were taken to the Abbot Emergency hospital here where they were treated by Drs. St. John, Healy and Hedges. They were later removed to their homes in Oakland.

McElroy, who is alleged by witnesses to have been traveling at a rate of speed in excess of 45 miles an hour, was arrested by Wesley Zimmerman, El Cerrito traffic officer. A charge of reckless driving was preferred by Chief Forrest Wright, who ordered him to appear in the El Cerrito police court on August 17.

McElroy is employed by the McCoy Tire agency, of 448 Twenty-third street, Oakland.

Woodland—Building permits totaling $15,000 were issued here.

BRITISH FLYER PLANS HOP-OFF THIS MORNING

LONDON, July 26.—Captain F. Courtney's trans-Atlantic flight to New York will begin tomorrow morning from the naval depot at Calshot, weather permitting, the British ace said tonight.

Further testing of the radio apparatus on the Courney craft have made the delay of the flight necessary and bad weather over the Atlantic added to the necessity for postponement.

Courtney plans to head from Calshot to Valentina, Ireland and then fuel up and head westward for New York.

Wrap a makin's paper around some of this!

TAKE a pinch of P.A., distribute it along a makin's paper, and do your little roll. Notice first of all how easily this tobacco "handles." No fuss or muss. No spilling all around. Prince Albert is crimp-cut, the ideal form for rolling. And listen—

Be ready for the biggest thrill that ever came your way when you light up. No home-rolled cigarette ever tasted like that before. Cool and wonderfully smooth, with a taste that can't be put into words. Cool and smooth and mild and mellow. Say, Mister!

You'll begin rolling right after breakfast, with a make-and-take program right through the day. Experienced roll-your-owners say there is no other tobacco like P.A. for home-made cigarettes. The "secret" is no secret at all — Prince Albert is simply better tobacco!

Better tobacco for home-made cigarettes and better tobacco for pipes. Jimmy-pipers the world over say that the way to get the most out of a pipe is to put P.A. into it. That's putting it as plainly as can be. Get some P.A. today. Smoke it either way. Do that!

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.
